

Come dine out to help a neighbor Lisa & John Corlito and their baby girl Kelsey

On November 16, 2010, Kelsey Corlito had her sixth open heart surgery in seven months. Diagnosed with an atrial septal defect at birth, a condition that is usually mended by one "simple and easy" procedure, a "3-4 day hospital stay." There has been nothing simple and easy about Kelsey's condition, Kelsey has undergone a series of corrective surgeries, including two mitral valve replacements, multiple cardiac catheter's, internal bleeding, pulmonary edema and countless hours of fighting for her life. Kelsey has been on an external pacing device, a ventilator for days at a time after each procedure, multiple paralytic drugs and at her worst, hooked up to a heart/lung machine that kept her alive for four days after her 4th surgery when her little heart was too just too tired to start again. Her tiny little incision has been opened and reopened, again and again. She now has a tissue valve and permanent pacemaker, both will need to be replaced at some point down the road. Kelsey has battled more than what anyone should have to endure in the course of a lifetime. And Kelsey is just 17 months old.

Born June 17, 2009, Kelsey arrived weighing only five pounds, three ounces. Small in size, she has been fighting an immense, courageous battle with the support of her loving parents, John and Lisa Corlito. But all the tears, hugs, and prayers from Kelsey's bedside are not enough to mend her heart. The surgeries and months of hospital care have financially crippled Kelsey's family and put their livelihood and home, and her health, at risk.
